Harlemites' Efforts to Suppress the Gas Works Muisance.

Committee of Business Men to Labor With the Board of Health.

Harlemites who live in the neighborhood of Pleasant avenue and One Hundred and Stxteenth street are determined to battle for the suppression of the Standard Gas - House stenches, which for two years have made life a burden to them.

Now that THE EVENING WORLD has taken up the fight in their behalf, they believe victory is at last in sight. Since their grievances were made publi they say that there has been a marked change for the better in the atmosphere of the neigh-

"This shows," said one protesting citizen, "that the Company is able to operate its gas works without creating a public nuisance if It chooses, and it also indicates how effective the pressure of public opinion may be made when applied in the right way.

"The Company claims that it employs process of manufacture by which disagreeable smells can be almost entirely avoided. On several occasions it has shown that it could do this, and that it has falled to carry out its promises is proof thas it has been careless and negligent."

Although Dr. Martin, the chemist of the Board of Health, has visited the gas works in question several times of late, he has reported that the situation has been exaggerated, and, according to Sanitary Superintendent Ewing, according to Sanitary Superintendent Ewing, has intimated that the real grievance of the citizens is that the existence of the gas works has deteriorated the value of property in the vicinity. This is denied very simplatically by the residents. A committee of citizens appointed at the indignation meeting held last week, called at the office of the Health Scar Saturday afternoon, but President Wilson had goes away for the day.

They have also sent a petition signed by hundreds of citizens to Gov. Hill and the State Board of Health.

Dr. Ewing, Sanitary Superintendent of the Board of Health, says:

"We have been investigating this matter very carefully of late, and one of our inspectors visits the place almost every day. Sometimes he goes there in the night, and he has made arrangements with one of the residents of the nighborhood to be summoned by telephone whenever the smells from the gas house become offensive.

"The president of the company was arrested about two years ago for allowing the discharge of sinding acid into the East River, but since that time we have no knowledge that the law has been violated in this respect."

Theatrical Manager Waterman's Second Trial for Murder.

Chronicles Briefly Drawn from Note- Selecting a New Jury to Try Peter Doran's Slayer.

> Asa R. Waterman, well known as the manager of the Lyceum Theatre in Williams-burg, who has been in jail since April 19, 1800, for the alleged murder of Peter Doran, a lather, was again placed on trial for his life this morning, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in Brooklyn.

Waterman was tried last November and the jury disagreed. His plea was self-defense. The crime was most sensational. Doran and his wife had been married four years, and a little girl was born of the union.

Mrs. Doran is a pretty blonde. She was the daughter of Chief Usher Petterson, of the Lee Avenue Academy of Music, and her fondness for theatres and the company of men Mayor Grant to-day revoked the license of other than her husband caused many quar-> ome from the Lyceum Theatre, and it was rumored that they were living on unduly intimate terms. On the night of April 19 1890, Dorani who had not seen his wife for Leonard and Meserole streets. He upbraided

It was a few minutes before midnight and the streets were deserted. What happened may never be explained, but shortly after the men met shots were heard and Doran was found lying dead.
Waterman claimed that he had shot the Waterman claimed that he had shot the man in self-defense.

Waterman is a short, slender, dark complexioned man with a dark mustache. He occupied a seat next his counsel this morning, and was very nervous. His face was pale, and his features had a drawn appearance. His long imprisonment has told upon his health. The court-room was crowded. There were many women in attendance, among them waterman's mother and sisters, but Mrs. Doran was absent.

District-Attorney Ridgway holds that Waterman alienated the affections of Mrs. Doran from her husband. He claims that the woman from her husband. He claims that the woman was enticed away by giving her free access to the theatre, and she subsequently left her husband to spend her time in Waterman's nusoand to spend her time in waterman's company.

He claims that Waterman deliberately shot Doran, who was unarmed.

On the night of the murder, Policeman Lear, of the Sixth Precinct, heard the pistol shots, and when he reached the spot he found Mrs. Doran crying. Doran was lying wounded in the gutter and another man was standing alongside.

Mrs. Doran said Waterman had done the shooting.

Jacob Hoffman, a clothing cutter, was an along the shooting.

Mrs. Doran said waterman had use the shooting. Jacob Hoffman, a clothing cutter, was an eye witness to the affair. When Doran came up to his wife and Waterman, he said:

"Young man, go home: this is my wife, and I have letters to prove it."

Waterman replied by asking the woman:

"Who do you want to accompany you home?"

"You," answered Mrs. Doran. Then, according to this witness's testimony. Doran struck Waterman, and the latter shot him. The bullet entered his lert lung and pierced his heart.

The bullet entered his left lung and pierced his heart.

As on the former trial, District-Attorney Ridgway is conducting the prosecution, and Jere. A. Wernberg appears for Waterman.

All the talesmen who were examined were questioned as to whether they were members of labor unions, secret societies or engaged in the theatrical business, or as to their prejudices concerning capital punishment.

After an hour's skirmianing two jurors were obtained. They are charies L. Provost and Edgar Purdy. The work of completing the jury will probably take all day.
